1. The airfield at Piestany (P49/T44) lies between the railroad and the highway from Piestany to Nove Mesto nad Vahom. It is 1,600 m. long and 900 m. wide. There are two cement runways about 50 m. wide which cross each other. One runs north and south, the other northeast and southwest.
2. On the east side of the highway is a stone building where airfield personnel are housed.
3. There are military barracks on the west side of the railroad. The soldiers living in them do not belong to the airfield, however. Their mission is not known to source.
4. There are two hangars along the south side of the airfield and there is a concrete apron in front of them. The headquarters buildings are south of the hangars. There is an antenna on the roof of the northernmost of these buildings.
5. The airfield was observed in snowy, rainy weather. Neither aircraft nor flying activity was observed.
